

Rulon International Sales, Support, Supply Chain Management and Production Capacity during the COVID-19 Pandemic

As part of the construction materials industry, Rulon International is classified as part of the country's "Critical Infrastructure" as defined by guidance published by the United States Department of Homeland Security. We take seriously our role in maintaining our nation's critical infrastructure and have taken numerous proactive steps to ensure we continue to operate during this time of crisis

Sales

- Our sales staff have transitioned to working remotely from their homes or offices and are actively monitoring their projects to minimize disruptions.
- We are actively using communications tools to keep in contact with customer partners on all Rulon projects.

Operations and Production

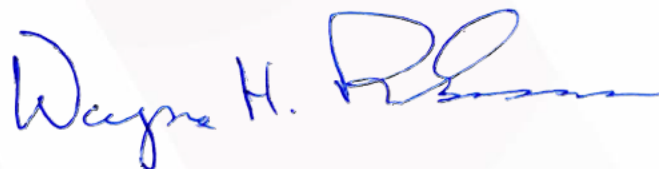

- Our manufacturing operations are currently running at planned levels. We are proactively managing inventory levels and production schedules to ensure timely delivery of projects.
- Our production and warehouse operations teams are practicing recommended social distancing and limiting personal contact to the greatest extent possible.
- We are rigorously pursuing a daily cleaning schedule to disinfect surfaces and minimize potential transmission points of the COVID-19 virus.
- We are providing appropriate personal protective equipment to our production staff to further minimize the chance of exposure.

Supply Chain

- We are in contact with our raw material suppliers on a frequent basis; to ensure needed raw materials are available for current and future supply capacity.
- At this time, we do not anticipate significant disruptions of our raw materials supply chain.

Should you have any questions or concerns, please contact your local sales representative or our corporate office at 904-584-1400. We wish all our key partners and customers' safety and health through this difficult time.

Pray that God will help our World, Country and Community during this time of trouble.
